Stefanie Tack is a partner in our Employment & Benefits practice.

She advises clients on all aspects of individual and collective labour law. With more than 15 years' experience, she has obtained significant labour and employment law experience in various sectors and industries, such as the retail, automotive, chemical, construction, hospitality, technology, and food industries.

Stefanie is known for her hands-on and practical approach. She is experienced in providing tailor-made advice to her clients, and, more specifically, she advises clients on the general employment policy of the company, the hiring of personnel and the termination of employment contracts (including the implementation of individual dismissals and career-end scenarios), the drafting of employment-related documents and specific clauses, compensation and (extralegal) benefits, employees' representative bodies within the company, the social elections and protected employees, health and safety at work, the restructuring of the company (collective dismissals and closures), and the labour and employment law aspects of M&A transactions. Over the years, she has developed specific expertise in advising companies on the implementation of internal whistleblower processes and procedures.

Stefanie Tack also has experience in negotiating with counterparties and trade unions, assisting clients within the framework of social inspections, performing internal HR audits, and litigating before the Belgian courts. She frequently authors legal articles and she is often invited to speak at conferences and seminars.

She is also a member of the Education Board and a voluntary academic assistant of the Social Law Practice of the Free University of Brussels (VUB), a board member of the Vlaams Pleitgenootschap (VPG) of the Brussels bar, and an active member of various national and international associations.

Education

Stefanie obtained a Master in law degree and an Expert Class in Professional (Sport) Management at Vrije Universiteit Brussel.

Admission

Stefanie was admitted to the Brussels Bar in 2006.
